“Tell me where it hurts . . .”

Honors 1540
Perspectives in the Humanities
Prescriptions for Empathy: Medicine and Literature
MWF 9:30-10:20

Can empathy be learned? Can it be measured? Read literature by and about patients, physicians, and nurses. Talk about power and pain. Watch medical dramas and analyze them. Get a look inside quantitative research on empathy and medicine. Think about empathy in the context of politics and personal interactions.

Sally Bishop Shigley
sshigley@weber.edu
801 626 7617