This scholarship is for majors in the Department of Geosciences who plan to pursue a career in the geosciences or science education. Selection will be based partly on the student’s record of university and/or department service and community outreach.

The award for this scholarship is $5,000.

Please Note:

This scholarship requires a separate application from the ones listed on the other side of this paper.

To Apply:

1. Include a separate cover page stating your name, and the name of this scholarship.
2. Provide a statement of interest (1-2 pages) that includes the following:
   - Your long-term goals in the field of geoscience and/or science education
   - Your previous geoscience-related service and community outreach
   - Your plans for future departmental involvement, service, and outreach
3. Attach a copy of your CatTracks degree evaluation. The department administrative specialist, Marianne Bischoff, can help you with this.

Due Date:

Applications are due in the Department of Geosciences office (SL 202M) no later than 4pm on Monday, February 29, 2016.
