How does one write in the digital age? This course not only introduces students to the habits and practices necessary for writing well at the college level but also provides them opportunities to write in a variety of styles and genres, including blogs and digital documentaries.