President’s Report

WSU Board of Trustees
Sept. 5, 2017

1. For the third year in a row, WSU has been selected as a Great College to Work For by the Chronicle of Higher Education, landing our university on the Chronicle’s honor roll. This year, Weber State was recognized in the areas of professional/career development programs, respect and appreciation, teaching environment, tenure clarity and process, collaborative governance, confidence in senior leadership, facilities, workspaces and security, job satisfaction and work/life balance.

2. The Lindquist Hall renovation project is now underway following a “funeral service” for the old Social Science Building in May. Construction is expected to be completed in fall of 2018, with faculty, staff and students able to occupy the building in spring of 2019. The space will be transformed from its former self and be a fantastic facility for years to come.

3. WSU also broke ground on the Ezekiel R. and Katherine W. Dumke Center for Interprofessional Education in Health Care, which will provide students from various areas of study an opportunity to better learn from one another. The facility will have three classrooms, a collaborative learning space, two seminar rooms and 15 offices. Ogden-area health care officials will also have an opportunity to team teach courses. Construction began with the help of donors Ezekiel R, Dumke Jr. and Katherine W. Dumke, and WSU is fundraising for the rest of the $4.2 million building.

4. Bob Hunter, outgoing United Way of Northern Utah president and CEO, will take over as the director of WSU’s Olene S. Walker Institute of Politics & Public Service. Hunter previously served as Weber County Commission chair, Ogden City manager, chair of the Wasatch Front Regional Council of Governments and Utah Transit Authority vice chair, among other service. In his role as adjunct professor, he has been involved with the Walker Institute since its beginnings five years ago.

5. The state delegation to Complete College America selected Chief Diversity Officer Adrienne Gillespie Andrews as an equity officer for the state delegation to Complete College America. She represented Weber State University at their semi-annual meeting in Indianapolis in July. Work will continue with Utah State Higher Education coordination and representatives for three other institutions and the governor’s office. In addition, Andrews appeared on the NPR’s “To the Point” program, in which she discussed the opioid crisis and war on drugs.
6. Forty-six incoming freshmen who are first-generation and/or historically underrepresented college students participated in Summer Bridge, a three-night program to acclimate them to college. Eighty-three percent of those students are currently enrolled for fall semester. Staff in Access & Diversity continue to support the Summer Bridge students through initial enrollment and transition to WSU. Freshman Connection events will occur throughout fall semester in order to continue to engage our historically underrepresented and first-generation incoming freshmen.

7. WSU, occasionally in partnership with YMCA of Northern Utah, offered several summer camps for area youths that ranged from outdoor adventure, to art, to science, technology, engineering and math. The camps were designed for age groups from 5 to 18. Some camps took place only over the summer 2017 while others will be taking place in subsequent summers.

8. In June, WSU’s College of Engineering, Applied Science & Technology hosted the Art & Science of Metalwork: Girls’ Welding Camp. The camp paired young women up with experts in metalwork and welding, where the teens learned about techniques to create beautiful metalwork. Participants received three days of instruction and spent two nights in WSU dorms.

9. No. 1 will forever acknowledge a Weber State legend now that WSU Athletics has retired Damian Lillard’s jersey. The jersey was lifted to the Dee Events Center rafters during halftime at the Weber State Alumni Classic on Aug. 26. Lillard is the third WSU player to have a jersey retired, with Willie Sojourner and Bruce Collins coming before him.

10. Also in basketball, WSU is ranked first in the Big Sky Conference for attendance to basketball games, with the Wildcats drawing an average of 6,869 fans in the 2016-17 season, which is on par with Utah State University’s average attendance. The Big Sky Conference university with the second most fans in attendance, Montana, has an average 3,955 fans per game.

11. Corbin Talley, who once ran on WSU’s track team under coach Chick Hislop, now serves as the men’s head coach for that sport. Talley came to WSU from Davis High School, where he spent 14 years. Talley took over for Dan Walker, who retired after 33 years of coaching the program. Paul Pilkington, who coaches the men’s and women’s cross country teams, will coach the women’s track and field team.

12. After saying goodbye to three trustees in May, WSU is saying goodbye to two more. Kevin Sullivan has also reached the end of his term. He contributed so much to the Board of Trustees and WSU through his service, having been a member since 2010. He also served as vice chair from 2013-2016. In addition, Steve Starks, who has served as a trustee since 2009, has indicated he will be resigning from the board in order to better attend to his duties as president of the Utah Jazz and Larry H. Miller Sports & Entertainment.

Emeriti Alumni Council
The Emeriti Alumni Council is off to an exciting start this year. Gerrit Wolthuis is the new emeriti president for 2017-2018. The council volunteered at Ask a Wildcat on Aug. 28 and 29.

YAC/GOLD Council
The Young Alumni Executive Council (YAC) met on July 27 to establish the vision and mission statement of the YAC, which is “to connect, empower, and engage all Wildcats of the last decade by providing resources and opportunities for networking, career growth and family programming”.

Student Alumni Association
SAA leadership met in August 2017 to establish vision for 2017-2018. SAA members attended the WSUAA Board and Council kick-off meeting in August 2017 and announced their goals of pride, gratitude, fellowship and giving for 2017-2018.

Regional Alumni Networks
There are 11 regional alumni networks (RANs). This year, we are focusing on building and strengthening these networks through activities and officer leadership development and training. We are also engaging through social media platforms like Facebook and LinkedIn. The RAN officer website and packets are being updated and redesigned.

WSUAA Membership
Beginning mid-July 2017 and ending Sept. 30, 2017, the Alumni Association membership program is running a “stay cool” campaign asking lapsed members to rejoin the association on auto-renewal. Alumni are being offered three different incentive packages.

License Plates
The license plate program continues to grow and support scholarships. Last year, we had 609 plates renewed and 147 new plates on the roads. We are proud to see people driving with pride.

Phone-a-thon
As we gear up for another season with the phone-a-thon, these are last year’s totals for donations made to the Alumni Association.
- Participation rate with pledges: 9.50%
- Fulfillment rate on pledges: 56.60%
- Average gift: $88.65

Volunteer Hours
Our board and council members have been hard at work support the mission of the Alumni Association. They are out and about on campus and in the community raising awareness of the Alumni Association and the university. This year, members completed 3,909 volunteer hours.
The Staff Advisory Committee is a group of 13 staff employees who represent the voice of over 950 non-exempt and exempt staff members to the university administration from all divisions of campus: Academic Affairs, Student Affairs, Information Technology, Administrative Services, University Advancement and the President’s Office. In addition to supporting the mission and vision of the university and encouraging staff to maintain a commitment to student success, our purpose is to seek input from non-exempt and exempt staff on current Weber State topics and issues, and to communicate back to staff the resolutions or changes to the various policies and procedures that affect them.

1. Over the summer, the SAC leadership attended the Utah Higher Education Staff Association (UHESA) conference held at Southern Utah University. The conference was an opportunity for the staff leadership at all Utah System of Higher Education institutions to network and discuss future collaborations on topics we are working on at our respective institutions and how to collaborate with the Utah State Board of Regents office on topics that affect staff at the legislative level.

2. The SAC will be hosting the UHESA fall meeting on Friday, September 15, in conjunction with the Utah State Board of Regents meetings on campus. UHESA will attend the Regents’ open meetings in the morning and conduct their business meetings in the afternoon.

3. Over the summer, the SAC leadership met with Doris Geide-Stevenson, chair of the Faculty Senate, to discuss how both groups can collaborate on topics that affect faculty and staff and promote student success. Additionally, ideas were shared regarding best practices in communicating more effectively to our respective groups.

4. In partnership with Adrienne Andrews, Chief Diversity Officer, the SAC will co-sponsor a conversation on racism and bigotry specific for staff. Date and time is to be determined; however, the meeting will take place mid- to late-September. Additionally, the SAC looks forward to working with Mrs. Andrews’ office to develop further collaboration on concerns staff have regarding diversity in the workplace.

5. In response to concerns staff have expressed related to the communication of ideas, changes at the university, and events, University Marketing and Communication and the SAC are working to develop a survey that further asks staff what kind of information they would like to be receive and how frequently like they would like to receive communication.

6. The SAC is developing videos that will increase awareness of who the SAC is and what the SAC does. Two videos are being produced: 1) to inform the campus community of who we are and what topics we have addressed, and 2) to inform non-exempt and exempt staff members what they can gain by being involved with SAC.

HILL AIR FORCE BASE

Why the F-35 is driving workforce needs?

The F-35 Has

- More lines of code than it took to launch the Space Shuttle
- A helmet that can see through the plane
- The ability to share info across platforms
Hill picked to run F-35’s complex software program

New mission will create hundreds of new jobs, but it’s unknown now how many will be here

By MITCH SHAW
Standard-Examiner Staff

HILL AIR FORCE BASE — Hill Air Force Base has scored another major piece of the F-35 program. Already home to the Air Force’s first operational F-35 combat fleet and the agency’s only maintenance hub for the next-generation fighter jet, Hill has now been tapped to take care of the jet’s complex software systems.

Hill Air Logistics Complex’s 39th Software Maintenance Group will be part of an Air Force and Navy team that will provide “organic software support” for the F-35. Hill spokesman Micah Garbarino said the “organic” term refers to the work being done in-house and not by Department of Defense contractors. To date, jet manufacturer Lockheed Martin has been handling most of the jet’s software workload.

The first assignment of F-35A’s arrive at Hill Air Force Base in September 2013. The base was notified this week that it will also maintain the planes’ complex software systems, in addition to other maintenance work already assigned here.

The F-35 has more than 8 million lines of code that help run flight controls, radar, communications, electronic warfare capabilities, sensors and weapons. Hill’s software maintenance team will oversee the jet’s pilot and processor systems, the autonomous logistics information system and software integration, according to a base press release.

In the release, Lt. Gen. Lee K. Levy II — commander of the Air Force Sustainment Center — said the new workload will be performed by a combination of veterans software engineers, orders and developers moving over from other jobs, as well as new hires.

Hill already provides software work for the F-16 and F-22.

The Air Force says “hundreds” of new jobs will be created across the DoD by the F-35 software support workload. The base has been working with a joint DoD transition team made of Air Force and Navy members and has already been taking on a limited number of new employees. Larger hiring efforts will be phased in over time.

game in the new Beehive Classic and a trip to the Bahamas. The Big Sky Tournament will be held in Reno, Nevada in March.

Campus Community Update Meeting

13. Vice President Tarbox reported that on an annual basis, the President of the University, along with other officials of the University, conduct a public hearing to update and inform the neighbors on the status of current construction projects on campus and future plans for additional growth. It is an open forum with a question and answer period. The meeting was held on June 22, 2017 and approximately 60 members of the community were in attendance. This is an information only item.

WSU Policy, PPM#3-68, Wellness Released Time

14. Vice President Tarbox mentioned that minor changes need to be made to the existing policy after EEOC and ADA require that all forms of incentives that require a medical exam for participation cannot exceed a specific dollar amount per year. The current wording of PPM# 3-68 causes wellness release time to be included in this financial cap. In order to continue offering this benefit, the policy/procedure must change so that an exam is not required for participation in wellness release time.

President Wight mentioned that Weber State made the Honor Roll for the Chronicle of Higher Education, and our wellness program helped us achieve this.
