Dear colleagues and friends,

The 2018-19 academic year has been exciting for Student Affairs at Weber State University (WSU). This was my first full year serving as Vice President, and it has proven to be a fabulous year full of exciting experiences and collaborative initiatives. I am pleased and humbled to be able to work with the high-quality students, faculty and staff of this great institution.

This year, we welcomed many new staff members across the division, saw staff move on to new challenges at other universities and celebrated the retirements of a few. While this has been a year full of transition, our dedicated staff have maintained and grown exceptional programs and services for existing and prospective students. This year we had several staff members receive prestigious awards and represented us statewide, regionally, nationally and internationally. We continue to seek new and creative ways to serve students and help them learn and develop critical skills for a lifetime of success.

This year’s annual report demonstrates our commitment to the university core themes of providing access to education, learning opportunities for students and a commitment to our surrounding community. We focused on three central priorities related to these core themes: ensuring students have access to and receive support in transitioning to WSU; engaging students in meaningful learning opportunities; and providing staff with professional development in order to advance our strategic priorities. We welcomed hundreds of high school students to campus through outreach programs and conferences, expanded our peer mentoring and employability areas, and engaged thousands of students in meaningful ways through our programs and activities.

As I look through our annual report, our passion for serving students is evident and I am proud of the work we have accomplished. I look forward to what the new year will bring, and all of the great work we will accomplish together!

Best wishes,

Brett Perozzi, Ph.D.
Learning Outcomes:

As a result of participating in programs and activities within the Student Affairs Division, students will have the opportunity to learn and/or develop in the following areas:

Civic Engagement reflects a person’s ability to recognize and fulfill responsibilities to self, community, and society at large. A civically engaged individual demonstrates social consciousness, practices volunteerism, and makes effective contributions in respectful and ethical ways.

Critical Thinking is reasonable, reflective thinking which involves forming and analyzing beliefs, making decisions, and evaluating actions. Critical thinkers are able to analyze, interpret, synthesize, evaluate, and apply information in the development of appropriate inferences.

Cultural Competence is understanding and appreciating diversity. Individuals who are culturally competent develop an inclusive world view, value differences, and interact with others in culturally appropriate ways which create a climate of mutual respect.

Interpersonal Communication Skills are the ability to interact effectively with others. Individuals with interpersonal communication skills relate to others in courteous, respectful, and professional ways; appropriately resolve conflicts; and maintain positive relationships.

Intrapersonal Competence reflects a person’s ability to develop and demonstrate self-understanding, self-esteem, self-confidence, and self-efficacy. Individuals who are intrapersonally competent can articulate their own beliefs and values, and are able to set and achieve goals consistent with their philosophy of life.

Leadership and Management Skills are the abilities to influence the actions of others. Individuals who have leadership and management skills are able to create a common vision, inspire others to accomplish that vision, obtain and utilize appropriate resources, and evaluate outcomes.

Responsibility and Accountability are the abilities to understand and fulfill one's obligations to others. Individuals who demonstrate responsibility and accountability are able to meet the expectations of others in ways consistent with specific policies and procedures and generally accepted behavioral norms.
PRIORITIES:

ACCESS: Ensure students have access to and receive support in transitioning to WSU

Enhance support services to better prepare & retain underrepresented students in high school
• Provide additional training, support, and observations of tutoring support services in the high schools including AVID support.

Engage with students during the time between being admitted to WSU through the first semester
• Expand Summer Bridge transition program.
• Expand interest groups that students can connect with when registering for orientation and provide intentional communication through the fall semester.
• Strategically structure programs and activities during the first six weeks of each semester to ensure that, as a division, we are engaging a broad range of students.

“I am a first-generation student, a Latina, the oldest sibling, a daughter, a girlfriend and a friend. A wonderful high school teacher flew me Weber’s college campus. I absolutely fell in love with the campus. I took a campus tour and loved the huge gym with a free membership, the stress relief center, the small class sizes, and so much more. I’m glad I decided to attend Weber State. However, there have been some trials. Some are being a first-generation and out of state student; being away from my friends and family; and trying to find my place in a new environment. Through all the struggles, I have had many accomplishments. I’ve managed to keep my GPA above a 3.5, while also making many friends and connections on campus. I’ve managed to be elected as Vice President for Diversity & Unity, something I never thought would have happened. I have also managed to make a plan so I can graduate with a Bachelor’s Degree in social work a year early. I left a strong influence behind at my high school for those students who will also be first generation and never believed they could go to college.”

– Isabela A.
Grant Programs

Pre-college grant programs served 1,341 high school students in the Ogden, Weber and Davis school districts.

The Student Affairs Student Success and Unrepresented Student Success Grant Programs award up to $10,000 in one-time grants for new, innovative projects that have the potential to increase learning or engagement of current or potential WSU students.

• Peer tutoring for concurrent enrollment math classes in the Ogden City School District.

LEARNING & ENGAGEMENT: Engage students in meaningful learning opportunities

Develop and provide training on advising strategies between Academic and Student Affairs (e.g., making referrals, Starfish utilization)
- Continue to develop and enhance use of the Starfish platform including increasing referrals made, utilizing the prospective student’s function, and allowing students to schedule online appointments (where possible).
- All departments with one-on-one meetings with students will be utilizing Starfish. Individual departments will develop success plans where necessary, and departments will contact users from their department who appear to not be returning the following semester.

Enhance the Division Peer Mentoring efforts
- Create a baseline of the number of freshman students served through (Student Affairs) mentoring programs.

Refine the intentional ways through which we connect students with engagement opportunities
- Enhance Student Affairs services provided through online mediums.
- Launch the Weber Connect engagement platform and the SafeUT app university wide
- Identify signature events in each department in order to cohesively and intentionally market to campus and other stakeholders.

Enhance the student employment experience
- Intentionally design and measure student learning through on-campus student employee training program.
- Increase visibility of and the number of on-campus student employment positions.

Increase semester to semester enrollment
- Assist in the university wide initiative to contact unaccounted for students by contacting individuals directly tied to our depts. (e.g., student leaders, employees).

“Working here has been a valuable resource during the course of my education at WSU. The staff at the Outdoor Program uplift, encourage and support each other in work, school and life.”
- Joseph B.

“Involvement is important to me because it is positively correlated to success, friends and purpose. I feel like I can wake up and know that I’m going to interact with someone, make a new friend or help someone. Involvement gives me more motivation to be on top of my studies, social life and professional development. For me, involvement is crucial to success.”
- Bret A.

Organized the 2018 Pride Week on campus to coincide with National Coming Out Day.
- The week included events, tabling, an Ally Training workshop, film screening, and participation in the Salt Lake City Pride Parade.

Davis Learning Support and Student Services
New Academic Peer Coaching program reached 600 new incoming students.
COMMUNITY: Enhance division communication and marketing

Unify Division marketing approach
- Move Student Affairs Marketing to report centrally.
- Create overall marketing strategy through Weber Connect, social media, and for signature programs.

Enhanced referral services provided by the Shepherd Union Information Desk
- Train Information Desk employees to serve as a one stop referral location.

Research extension space
- Work with key individuals to identify and prepare long-term space for CCEL’s research extension.

“I want people to understand we have so many resources and so many programs. I want people to feel included, feel welcome to every event, every athletic team game, as well as help people realize that this is just such a good school to go to.”
—Jordan S.

“Well, my favorite element of science and critical thinking is that being wrong is often a good thing because it can lead you down a whole new path of discovery. I love that he (Bill Nye) touched on that and expressed the point that there are a lot of things he is “sure” on that may not be the case. Intellectually honest people are open to the idea of evidence, and he expressed how accepting he would be of that evidence even if it meant he was wrong.”
—Erin D.
COMMUNITY

4,130 WSU students contributed 132,626 community service hours.

Shepherd Union
Hosted 2,086 reservations, including academic conferences, high school dances and high school graduations.

This summer the Union will host 18 conferences with 2,194 overnight guests, and estimated revenue exceeding $500,000.

Center for Community Engaged Learning

Engaged Learning Series theme: Matter of Fact. The series ended with a major collaboration from more than 20 on and off campus entities who organized a visit by Bill Nye. The event sold 5,117 tickets.

Student Health Center
Hosted HIV testing
• This event ran in coordination with the Davis County Health Department and the Davis Student Council.
• The success of this event may lead to additional opportunities for targeted health events at WSU Davis.
Access & Diversity

Hispanic Heritage Month

The Hispanic Area Council and WSU’s Ballet Folklórico recognize the importance of their mission and goals and worked together to accomplish it. Student leaders under Access and Diversity’s Center for Multicultural Excellence organized, conducted and participated in seven events and activities for 2018-2019. Events included partnerships with various WSU’s academic departments and areas including the Stewart Library, History Department, Art Department, Foreign Language Program, the Dolores Huerta committee, Artes de México in Utah, SLC Mexican Consulate, Ogden City, Arts and Museums, Utah Museum of Fine Arts, Peruvian Consulate, Chile Una Postal Folk Group, Kausachún Perú, Tutullí and the Ogden Welcome Immigrant Center.

Over 30 student leaders helped in the coordination, planning, and execution of the month-long event, which brought about 1,800 people in attendance. The WSU Hispanic Heritage Month brought local and international artists such as local artist Ayne Velasquez and her Frida Khalo Exhibit. Warner Rios shared his Portraits of the Andes Woman from Perú. The exhibits included the artists lived experiences, historical context of their work, and instigated educational discussions at each event throughout the month.

We care about you.

We are whole-heartedly dedicated to fostering a welcoming environment that allows you to connect with Weber State in meaningful ways, giving you the support to define your own college experience.

We understand and respect that you are a real person with a unique and diverse background and needs that must be met to keep you in school, engaged, growing and driven to complete your degree.

To help meet your needs, we offer academic support and opportunities for development outside of the classroom. We offer student-centered programs and services designed to help you not only make it through school, but enjoy the experience and feel like you are forever a part of Weber.
