UGIC Scholarship Program 2014

Award: Free Registration to UGIC Annual Conference
Richfield, UT May 7-9, 2014

The Utah Geographic Information Council is a non-profit organization of GIS professionals. In addition to providing continuing education and collaboration opportunities to current GIS professionals, a primary goal of UGIC is to encourage and advance geographic information systems through all levels of education. UGIC is pleased to continue a scholarship program to assist in the education of future GIS professionals.

The UGIC Conference Scholarship is designed to give students an opportunity to gain professional experience prior to entering the workforce. Attendance at the UGIC conference will introduce you to the local GIS community, establish valuable contacts with current GIS professionals, provide technical skills through conference workshops, and introduce you to projects and applications currently underway in our community.

2 awards will be granted to applicants meeting the eligibility requirements and selected by the UGIC board based on their evaluation of applicant’s selection criteria submission. Awards will include registration and lodging expenses.

Students receiving an award will spend a half-day of the conference assisting UGIC Board members at the Registration Desk or other conference duties.

Eligibility:
Applicants must be current undergraduate students (full or part-time) working towards a degree in an accredited college or university in Utah. The degree or program the applicant is work towards must have an emphasis or focus on GIS. Disciplines may include Geography, Engineering, Environmental Sciences, Urban Studies, Planning, Transportation, Geology, Social Sciences, etc.

Selection Criteria:
• Statement from applicant: 750-1000 word typed essay describing the applicant’s interest in GIS, how GIS has been applied in current program of study, educational and career goals, and an indication of how the applicant intends to apply GIS skills in their profession/career. Significant weight will be based on the applicant’s explanation of what they hope to gain by attending the conference.
• Brief letter or statement of reference from 1 professor familiar with your academic ability.

Submissions must be received by Feb 28, 2014. Please e-mail all materials to the UGIC Board at ugic.utah@gmail.com. College or University department will be contacted to verify student status.

Awards will be announced by March 21, 2013.
