

Metaphor* Submission Eligibility

Metaphor is now accepting submissions year-round. Submissions received must be done at the undergraduate level. Graduate students' entries will not be accepted. Submissions must be received before the annual deadline to be considered for the 2021-2022 publication. Members of the Metaphor staff cannot submit to the journal as part of the regular submission process but are encouraged to submit to NULC. Currently, Metaphor is only accepting submissions from Weber State University students. We will not consider the work of students from other universities as part of our regular submission process. Students from other universities should consider submitting work to the National Undergraduate Literary Conference. Metaphor publishes a select amount of submissions from the conference in our annual journal, including student work from universities other than WSU. Judging NULC submissions is NOT done by Metaphor staff.

All works submitted must be original by the author, and not previously published elsewhere. If a student's work is accepted, Metaphor reserves first rights to the piece. (Students may submit these pieces elsewhere after Metaphor accepts or rejects them.)