The Center for Community Engaged Learning (CCEL) Community Engaged Leaders - Community Research Team

The Community Engaged Leader – Research Team program is a student-run research program where students collaborate with community organizations to solve community problems through research. Engaged leaders will conduct these projects with the guidance and assistance of faculty members.

Position responsibilities may include:

- Communicating with community partners about research needs they may have;
- Designing and implementing community research projects that are requested by community partners;
- Recruiting students with statistics and research skills to assist with community research projects;
- Attending weekly meetings with Faculty Advisor and other Community Engaged Leaders for research training and for assistance with community research projects;
- Recruiting and collaborating with faculty possessing relevant expertise for project completion.

Student will be expected to devote 7 hours a week.

Compensation will be a $400 stipend per semester for the current Fall and upcoming Spring Semester.

Preference will be given to students who have demonstrated quantitative and/or qualitative research experience. This experience may be demonstrated by completion of statistics and/or research methods, and/or experience collecting, analyzing, interpreting data to solve research problems.
