When you complete the special education mild-moderate program, you will be prepared to design and prepare teaching and other educational services to children with special learning needs or disabilities in grades K-12. The program includes instruction in diagnosing learning needs, developing individual education plans, teaching and supervising special education students, and applying appropriate laws and policies.

We work within our communities to prepare caring, competent educators and to promote equitable, inclusive, and transformative education practices.

Community: We recognize that effective educator preparation is a cooperative endeavor involving faculty and staff members within the Teacher Education Department, the Moyes College of Education, and Weber State University. Our community also includes school districts, administrators, and teachers as well as professional organizations. Our success depends on effective and consistent collaboration between all groups.

Caring, Competent Educators: Our central aim is to ensure that teacher candidates develop necessary skills and dispositions as outlined in the Utah Effective Teaching Standards. We also acknowledge that it is of indispensable importance that each teacher develops an enduring ethic of care—the propensity and ability to meet the educational needs of each student.

Equitable, Inclusive, and Transformative Education Practices: We believe that processes and institutions of teaching and learning can and should become increasingly equitable, promoting the well being of all students, with special emphasis on underserved populations. To that end, we are committed, where necessary, to transforming the attitudes and beliefs of teacher candidates and to extending our research and professional outreach in shaping general educational practice and policy.

What is CAPES!? The Children’s Adaptive Physical Education Society, or CAPES!, is an initiative that began in the fall of 2013. Children with developmental disabilities (e.g., Autism, Down’s Syndrome, Cerebral Palsy, Muscular Dystrophy, etc.) ages 5-12 and their families are eligible to participate. CAPES! is a collaborative effort between the Teacher Education and Health, Physical Education and Recreation departments housed within the Moyes College of Education. James Zagrodnik, assistant professor of physical education, and Natalie Williams, professor of special education, serve as the program’s directors.

How do students get involved? Students enrolled in the EDUC 2010: Human Exceptionality course and PEP 3660: Adaptive Physical Education course participate in practicum experiences designed to enhance their knowledge, understanding and application of various teaching and learning theories in relation to individuals with disabilities. CAPES! offers a combination of land and aquatic-based activities that assist with social interaction, balance, agility, motor skills, strength and fitness. Sessions are held Tuesdays, from 6:15 p.m. to 7:30 p.m., throughout the fall and spring semesters in the Swenson Gym.

CAPES! Mission: The mission of CAPES! is to provide children with disabilities within the Weber community the opportunity to enhance their motor, social and cognitive skills with the goals of increasing independence and empowering them to become their own superheros.
CAROLINA RABELO, CLASS OF 2023, SPECIAL EDUCATION MAJOR

“I am a non-traditional student who struggled for a long time to find a career I wanted to pursue. I wanted to find something that gave me purpose. Finding the special education program has been one of the best things in my life. The program is absolutely amazing, the faculty are knowledgeable, passionate and experienced in working with children with disabilities. I was born and raised in South America, where the resources for children with disabilities are very limited. Our professors are kind and flexible and go above and beyond to help me understand concepts and assignments. I love that we learn in the classroom as well as visit schools where we can learn more and work with children.”

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

Why choose us?
• Preparation to be an effective educator
• Opportunities for continued professional development in teaching and student learning in a changing global society
• Accredited by the Association for Advancing Quality in Educator Preparation (AAQEP)
• Low student/faculty ratio

What degree is available?
Bachelor of Science (BS)

What are the employment opportunities?
There is a high placement rate upon graduation. The major will prepare you to teach in special education. WSU graduates are hired by local districts as well as districts throughout Utah and around the country.

What are the starting salaries for graduates?
In Utah, starting salaries in 2021 range from $46,000 to $50,000 depending on the district, with the potential of earning $65,000 to $80,000 with several years of service and additional education.

What will I learn in the program?
WSU teacher preparation programs are based on Utah Effective Teaching Standards that address the content knowledge, teaching skills, and professional dispositions for beginning teachers. At the conclusion of your program, you will be able to: (1) demonstrate mastery of the subject matter that you teach; (2) use knowledge of child/adolescent development and diversity to teach all of today’s children; (3) learn how to plan curriculum, use technology, and foster communication in ongoing instructional planning; and (4) collaborate with others as you reflect upon your professional teacher preparation.

Is there an application deadline?
Yes, the department processes applications twice a year. The fall deadline is in February and the spring deadline is in September to apply.

What courses will I take in this program?
The required courses are listed inside this sheet. All listed requirements are subject to change. Always consult an advisor for current requirements.

GRADE REQUIREMENTS
You must meet minimum grade requirements for major courses, maintain an overall GPA of 3.00 or higher in all college work, and achieve at least a “B-” grade in each professional education course to continue in the program.

PROGRAM REQUIREMENTS

ADMISSION REQUIREMENTS
• Declare your major as Special Education in the Department of Teacher Education.
• Admission to the teacher education program is a separate process from WSU admission and is on a provisional basis until the semester you student teach.
• Admission into the teacher education program is a selective process. Here is the link for the admission materials: http://www.weber.edu/teachered/how-to-apply
• In order to be admitted, you must be fingerprinted and have a background clearance check before starting the professional education course work. If the background check reveals criminal misconduct that has not been cleared by the Utah Professional Practice Commission, admission will be revoked.

ADVISEMENT
You should meet with an advisor in the Teacher Education Advisement Center, located in the Education Building, Room 230. Call 801-626-7694 for more information or to schedule an appointment. All listed requirements are subject to change. Always consult an advisor for current requirements.
