Rights and Options

I was sexually or physically assaulted...

When can I seek medical attention?

Ideally within 72 hours after a physical or sexual assault. You will be given a law enforcement case number, and given the option to speak with a police officer. A sexual assault nurse examiner can:

- Check you for injuries
- Discuss concerns such as sexually transmitted infections, HIV and pregnancy
- Preserve evidence through a sexual assault forensic exam (it’s free and does not require a commitment to report)

A victim/survivor advocate can be present to discuss reporting options and next steps with you.

Where to go

To have a forensic exam conducted by a Northern Utah Sexual Assault Nurse Examiner (NUSANE), contact:

- In Morgan or Weber County, contact the YCC: 801-392-7273 (24/7)
- In Davis County, contact Safe Harbor: 801-444-9161 (24/7)

Any time.

Weber State University Police are available 24/7 to discuss your options, take a report, and put you in contact with a NUSANE for a forensic exam. You can:

- Report a crime that occurred on campus. Officers are prepared to believe you, listen without judgment and provide resources
- Have a support person, friend or advocate with you
- Inform WSU Police that you already have a civil protective order that includes campus

WSU Police: 801-626-6460

When can I go to the police?

Any time.

When can I report the assault to the university?

Any time.

Policy investigations are conducted through the Office of Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity (801-626-6240/6239 or aa-eo@weber.edu). You can also contact the Safe@Weber Advocates (801-626-6090 or safeatweber@weber.edu).

Support measures may include:

- no contact orders
- modifications to campus housing or work
- temporary academic accommodations
- support through WSU petition processes
- emergency funding

When can I seek additional confidential support?

Any time.

Counseling & Psychological Services (801-626-6406) are available to support you, listen to you and believe you.

Safe@Weber Advocacy Services (801-626-6090) provides a confidential advocate Monday through Friday (8 a.m. - 5 p.m.).
